

Plymouth College of Art and Design was renamed in December 2008, and became Plymouth College of Art.

It was founded as the Plymouth Drawing School in 1856 and is one of only three independent colleges of art and design in the UK.

The College provides art and design education, specialising in the fields of art, design, crafts and media. Plymouth College of Art offers foundation, undergraduate and postgraduate degrees in a range of art, design and digital media subjects as well as creative pre-degree courses. Pre-Degree courses include creative A-Levels, BTEC Extended Diplomas, Foundation Diploma in Art and Design and Creative Apprenticeships.

The College caters for approximately 2,000 students and over 250 members of staff are employed by the college.

"We having been using networx since February 2015, and have found the system to be user-friendly to both applicants and College users.

The system has transformed our recruitment processes allowing for a better candidate experience, as well as enabling more efficient processes and communication.

Placing adverts online is easy yet thorough enabling us to capture and report on information, and our advert appearance is in line with our artistic branding, meaning seamless transition from our own website throughout the networx recruitment software.

Managers within the College have welcomed the system and have found shortlisting online extremely beneficial and efficient and the system allows us to track online where we are at with each job.

The system is proving to be a real asset within in our small but busy HR team and we are excited about utilising its many benefits over the coming months to further strengthen our recruitment processes and experience.

Our Client Relations Manager, has been there from the word go and is always happy to help with any queries

We would highly recommend networx to other colleges and organisations."

Plymouth College of Art

